Nolle Prosse Entered in Suits Against

Salt Lake, Nov. 11.-A nolle prosse was entered Wednesday afternoon in the United States court by Judge F A. Maynard, the special attorney of the government in the prosecution of the coal land cases, in the indictment against Charles M. Freed, Walter G. Filer, Don C. Robbins and Edwin W. Senior. The indictment charged conspiracy against the government, and was returned by the federal jury Jan-

In the charge it was held by the government that the defendants had entered into a conspiracy, on or about to secure 4,000 acres of coal lands in Emery county by a process contrary to According to the prosecution, the "dummy" entry system was em ployed. Robbins, it was alleged, acted as agent for Filer, who put up most The inclement weather had little of the money in the transactions to secure entry by persons who had no en up by them. These "dummies" numbered twenty-eight and, according to the government, were each sums ranging from $125 to $175 for their services Money was deposited in the bank to their credit for which they took a cashier's check in each case for $1,600, or $10 an acre for the 16e acres which they entered upon. Then they applied to the land office and were given receiver's receipts for the money they paid in. A total of $40,000 was paid in to the office of the receiver, and this money the govern-

As soon as they got their receipts, was set up, the "dummies" turned them over to Freed who was given a first mortgage on the land. Freed now holds the receipts, but the land has never been patented and Freed's interest, consequently, is restricted to a right in equity.

E. W. Senior entered into the case because he acted as attorney for the other alleged conspirators and drew up the papers for them. Mr. Senior asserted that his connection with the matter was purely professional and that he had no knowledge of any intention on the part of Freed or any one else to defraud the government Mr. Freed also asserted that he bought the receipts in good faith.

TRIAL OM MANDAMUS

CASE IS COMMENCED Salt Lake, Nov. 11 .- Judge George G. Armstrong of the district court. Wednesday, begin the trial of the case of H. Otto Hanke, H. R. MacMillan and J. J. Daly against Josiah Barnett, secretary, and Herbert S. Cohen, as-sistant secretary, of the Daly-West Mining company. Hanke and the other plaintiffs are seeking a writ of mandamus to compel the officers to permit them to examine the books and records of the company.

They are stockholders in the company and claim that its affairs are be ing mismanaged by the present direc tors and officers, to the injury of all the stockholders. They made a demand upon the secretary and his as sistant to examine the books and rec ords of the corporation, but were re fused permission to do so, they say hence they are asking for a writ from he court to compel the officers to give them that privilege.

The Daly-West company claims that the plaintiffs are seeking information for the benefit of the Ontario and Daly Judge Mining companies, and not for their own personal benefit. The trial of the case will probably take severa! days.

JOHNSON CAN WHIP JEFFRIES

Statement by Negro's Manager Is That Johnson Will Make Jeff Look Slow.

By Geo. Little, Manager and Backet of Jack Johnson.)

I know that Jack Johnson will whip Jeffries. I am going to bet my money on him. I have known Johnson fo many years. I have known many other fighters. I believe that Johnson s the highest development in the way of a heavyweight fighter that a ring

I like to think of it in this way The race horses of the twentieth cen tury are the fastest ever Some year some runner breaks all ex isting records, and men have been racing on foot throughout the history of the world. We are at the very highest point of development in many directions. And I class Jack Johnson at the front of this development. He's the twentieth century's best in his line and no fighter in modern history, I be lieve, has ever been as quick, clever, or powerful as this wonderful negro. I know Jack will make Jeffries lool like a hitching post so far as quick ness is concerned. He has as muci power in his blows as Jeffries and he can get out of Jeff's way. Jeff will not be able to get out of the way of Johnson I am worrying because I fear that

Johnson will kill Jeffries. This is no

Johnson Hard Worker. Johnson has always been a clean hard-working boy. As a lad he work ed for a Swede milkman in Galveston for 10 cents per week. His brother told me that was Jack's first salary. The boy worked sixteen hours a day and one day got mad at his employer threw bricks at him and ran home old her that if Jack would come bac So Jack patched up his troubles and went back to the milkman.

The first fight Johnson ever had was down in Galveston. a big crowd present and Jack won His share of the gate receipts was just $1 and he had to pay the refered 25 cents out of his winnings. Another time, in a battle royal at Springfield Ill., Jack laid out six negroes and re ceived a purse of $1.25.

How Johnson ever lived in those days I do not know. He ate so much that he was fired out of every boarding house he entered. He could clean up a free lunch counter in ten min-utes, but what made the bartender sore was that he wouldn't drink the eer he ordered to gain admission to eat so much as Johnson does now I have seen him eat three spring chickens and twenty biscuits and drink two quarts of water at one sitting.

Johnson has never been a rowdy. As a boy he lived at home. His mother taught him how to cook and there is nothing that he likes to do now better than knead up a batch of dough for soda biscuits. He can bake bread and cake and his corn cake would make a boy strike his dad. When Johnson roasts a chicken you can be sure that it will be dead right. All these little things show that Johnson is not an accident as a fighter, but has ome to it by right living and careful physical development

I admit that Jack doesn't like Jeffries. Well, Jeffries doesn't like him. There will be hatred behind the blow. on both sides. It will be a hard fight. But—here's the point: A champion fighter who has once closed his caree never comes back. Jeffries can't. It isn't in him any more.

Johnson has been meeting all comers in theaters all over the country 'Will he hurt me?" asked a huge bollermaker of me when he came to make a match. He was as big as an ox. "No, he won't hurt you," I answered, "but you go in and try to hurt him. Hit as hard as you can." For many months Johnson has been meeting men like hat, while Jeffries, for several years, has had nothing to do with the ring. Johnson is in the pink of perfection. Jeffries can never be what he was could have whipped Jeffries of seven years ago.

KETCHEL HAS CAUSED FRIENDS MUCH ANXIETY

Chicago, Nov. 11.-Consumed with grief over the death of his friend, Wil-lus Britt, Stanley Ketchel is causing his San Francisco friends no end of worry and anxiety. Reports from the coast are to the effect that Stanley is going wild and besides drinking hard is such miserable physical condition than it seems likely he is near a break-down of some sort. He has his automobile driver arrested every few hours for fast driving.

While there may not be anything serious about this sad affair and it is followed as closely as it was by the death of Britt, has put a bad crimpt in the plans of more than one fight

It was counted that even a defeat at the hands of Johnson would not impair Ketchel's reputation to any great extent, and plans are making in the fight centers for the appearance of Ketchel, back once more in his own class. These San Francisco reports make it plain, however, that Stanley is upon the shelf for some time to The announcement some time ago that he would not fight in many months doubtless came from an au thoritative source. Ketchel has been one of the wildest of young men. Training was an awful bore to him at all times, and only the lure of the nice things possible of accomplishment with the ac cruing coin made the training periods half way pleasant. Indeed at times Stanley neglected his work absolutely and this was the excuse given when Billy Papke hung one over on Stanley in the Los Angeles ring and finally knocked him out completely.

Britt for a time proved to be the restraining hand for Ketchel, but it was not long before the Britt influ-ence began to work the reverse way and together the pair is said to have strayed from the straight and narrow. New York stories were to the effect that when Stanley remained at the hotel and elected to put in a quiet night he would have to dodge Britt by taking another room than his own and going

It would be most unfortunate to see such a wonderful fighter as Ketchel go completely to pieces because of a licking at the hands of the negro, for it looks as if that more than anything else started him upon the downward It was an exhibition of amazingly bad judgment to make that match at all, and the keen disappointment following it in the Ketchel camp caused all the trouble that Stanley's friends are having now.
